About Your Chiropractor

Dr. Andrew Iggo was born in Christchurch New Zealand and after completing a science degree moved to Australia to study Chiropractic. He completed his five years of Chiropractic studies at RMIT University and has gained extensive experience throughout the world, having worked in New Zealand, Australia, Ireland, Scotland and Northern Ireland.

Andrew has undertaken research and further studies to make sure that he remains up to date with the latest advances in the profession. This enables us to provide you with the highest standards of care.

Leading the profession in the design and production of reconstructive care equipment takes up many of Andrew's hours when not seeing patients. His special interest areas include infants/children's health and performance enhancement for the serious and not so serious athlete.

We are glad you are in such great hands.

What is Chiropractic?

Chiropractic is a healthcare profession based on the fact that the nervous system (brain, spinal cord and nerves) is the prime coordinating, controlling and regulating mechanism of every cell and organ in the whole body.

Poor function in the moving bones of the skull, spine and pelvis can interfere with the message exchanges between the brain and the body. Messages become scrambled or distorted as a result of the nerve irritation present. This is called a subluxation.

Without proper nervous system control and monitoring, ill health results. Chiropractic care helps restore the integrity of the nervous system.

Chiropractors, by applying specific adjustments to the spine, skull and pelvis, reduce this interference, thereby allowing the body to return to better function and health naturally, without the risks of drugs and surgery.
